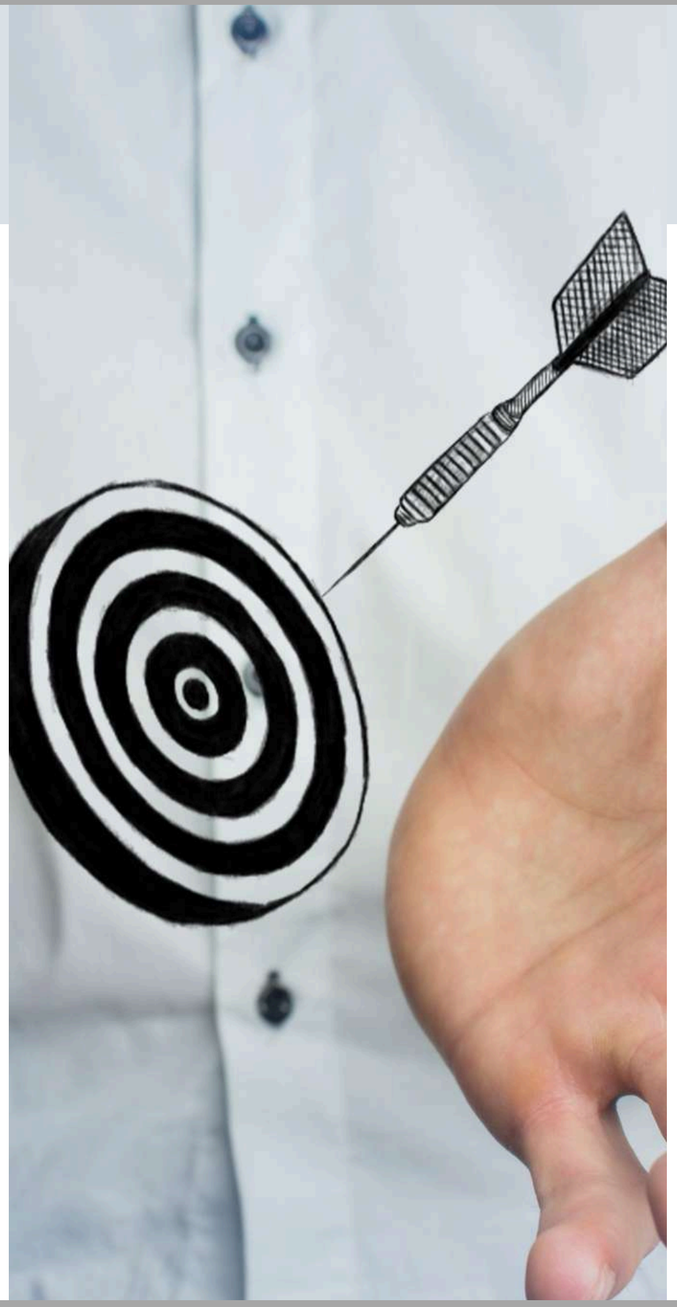
TRAINING OVERVIEW

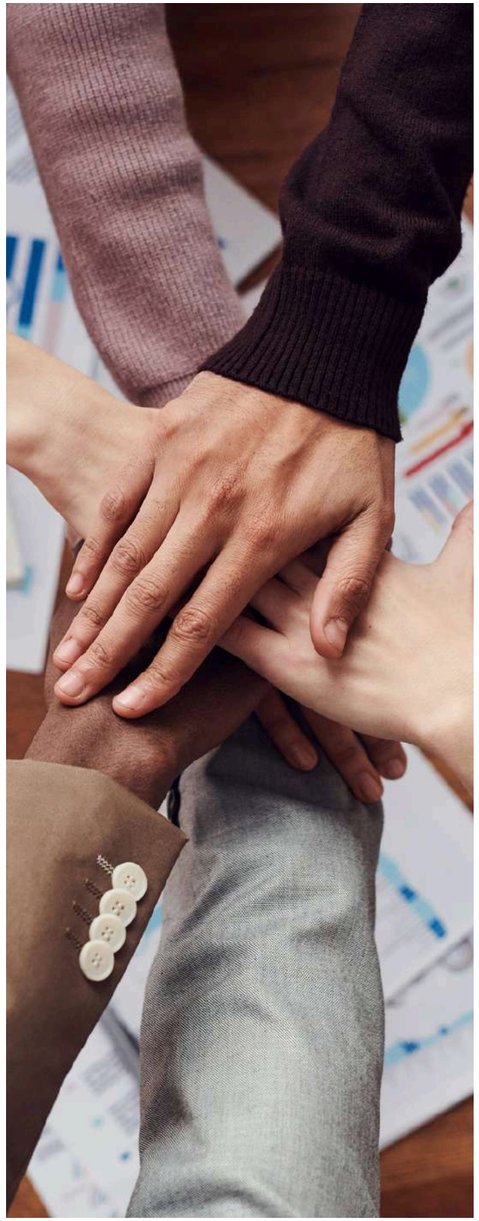
It’s a 7-day Erasmus+ training course on interactive escape boxes for educational purposes, fully funded by the Erasmus+ Programme.

Participants will learn to design and use escape boxes as powerful tools to raise awareness of human rights, racism, and radicalisation. Together, we’ll create and test ready-to-use toolkits and explore how to adapt them for lasting impact in local communities.

OBJECTIVES OF THE TREAINING



- Educate participants on designing and using interactive escape boxes for educational purposes.
- Introduce the edutainment approach (education + entertainment), combining fun and learning to engage young people in serious social issues.
- Raise awareness of human rights, racism, and radicalisation.
- Create and test functional escape boxes with toolkits (including scenarios, puzzles, and guidelines) that participants can use in their local communities.
- Support participants in applying, adapting, and sharing escape box methods within their organisations to ensure lasting benefits.



EMIR SHEVKIIEV

Experienced trainer and educator with a strong background in developing and leading educational programs across Europe. He currently works as an Educational Director at Logos Polska, where he trains youth workers and young people in areas like human rights, soft skills, critical thinking, and media literacy. He is also managing several projects of various scales within ESC and Erasmus+ frameworks and manages volunteering teams in the organisation. Since 2017, Emir has delivered over 20 training courses within the E+ on topics of escape rooms, escape boxes, LARP, critical thinking.

MARKO BOYKO

Board member of Logos NGO and a co-founder of Lernlabor Berlin. Holding a Master's degree in Human Rights and Democratization, he is an expert in non-formal education, crisis management, and outdoor education.
With over 15 years of experience in youth work, Marko has been actively engaged as a trainer and facilitator, specializing in gamification as an educational tool. His primary focus is on integrating escape rooms, quests, and LARP into learning experiences, particularly in the field of human rights education.
